TRUSTEES' MEETING

LICENSE ORDINANCE AMENDED —REQUEST TO DECORATE CITY FOR CONVENTION

The Board of Trustees met in regular session at the City Hall at 8:00 p. m., January 18, 1917. All members present at roll call.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and a correction made on Page 477 substituting "Chairman of Public Works Committee" for "Superintendent of the Public Service Department." With this correction, the minutes were approved.

A communication was read from the County Board of Supervisors enclosing a form of resolution in regard to the proposed bond election of February 2nd requesting its adoption by the board. On motion of Trustee Muhleman, the communication was ordered to be filed and action deferred for one week.

The Tax Collector presented a report showing collections for the week amounting to $330.07; total taxes collected to date being $37,642.02. The report was ordered to be filed.

The City Manager reported the receipt of a letter by the City Clerk from the clerk of the Board of Supervisors showing the amount of $339.75 due the City of Glendale from the county from the road fund in annexed territory. He recommended that a portion of this amount be used to cover the cost of preparing profiles and establishing official grades upon all streets within these districts. On motion of Trustee Grist, the city engineer was instructed to prepare profiles and establish grades for the streets in the recently annexed territory; also that the engineer confer with the chairman of the public works committee in regard to the work.

Mr. Stafford, chairman of a committee of the Young People's Christian Endeavor Society, addressed the board stating that at the coming convention to be held in Glendale March next they expect to entertain from one thousand to fifteen hundred people. He wished the board to make an appropriation for decorating the city on that occasion. He promised to investigate the matter further and appear before the board again. On motion, a permit was granted the committee to put up a sign on a vacant lot at the corner of Louise and Colorado streets advertising the convention.

Mr. J. F. Chandler addressed the board in regard to the gas situation on Stanley avenue, stating that the people of that vicinity have granted easements and complied with all the conditions required by the Gas company, but that the service has not yet been installed. On motion of Trustee Muhleman, the matter was referred to the city manager for immediate attention, a report to be made at the next meeting.

The city manager made a report in regard to the planting of trees along Verdugo road; the county forester had been out looking over the grounds and promised to have oak trees planted from Oakwood street to the junction of Glendale avenue and Verdugo road.

The petitioner who had applied at the last meeting of the board for a permit to establish a cleaning, pressing and dye works at 1009 W. Broadway appeared before the board and explained his proposition.

The city manager made a report in regard to the same to the effect that he in conjunction with the building inspector and fire chief had investigated various dye works establishments in the city and that in reference to the present application, the building inspector had informed him that property owners in the vicinity of the proposed establishment object to its presence. Action in the matter was deferred for one week.

The city manager made a report in reference to the request of a number of taxi drivers presented at the last meeting for a modification of the license ordinance and presented an ordinance amending the same.

On motion "An Ordinance of the City of Glendale amending Ordinance number 274, entitled An Ordinance of the board of trustees of the city of Glendale licensing and regulating the carrying on of certain businesses and occupations therein mentioned; providing license fee for the same and providing a penalty for the violation thereof and repealing all ordinances in conflict therewith, and repealing ordinance number 263 entitled an ordinance of the board of trustees of the city of Glendale licensing and regulating the carrying on of certain businesses and occupations therein mentioned; provid-

WHAT OUR LAWMAKERS ARE DOING—MANY BILLS INTRODUCED

Prohibiting the sport of "bulldogging" (or throwing steers by a mounted rider who dismounts when he grasps the steer's horns); licensing insurance brokers and agents; permitting owners of growing crops, orchards and vineyards to hunt within a mile of their places without a license; removing license for hook and line fishing in salt waters; requiring three years' study for prospective lawyers before they can be admitted to practice; giving poor people the right to conduct their own cases without being subject to payment of costs; requiring recall petitions to have thirty per cent of vote cast at the last election; joint resolution urging congress to establish loan offices in connection with postal savings banks; preventing sale of cold storage or infected potatoes for seed; bounty free market bill; prohibiting renting of basements for residence purposes.

Two proposals were introduced in the senate to make the eight-hour law for women more extensive in its operation. Senator Lyon of Los Angeles wants it to apply in all cases of harvesting, curing and drying of fruits and vegetables and to graduate nurses in hospitals. Senator Lyons of San Francisco would go further, making the law apply to canneries and would require employers to furnish seats for women employees when they are not engaged in active duties.

A resolution asking that the "cloak room attendant" be furnished with a whisk broom drew a laugh in the assembly yesterday, but later it caused a hot argument between Assemblyman Mouser and Chairman Smith of the committee on attaches. The attendant is J. B. Bass, colored, editor of a publication for colored people and a college graduate. Mouser brought Bass from Los Angeles and had him put on the job as assistant sergeant at arms. But there were enough assistant sergeants so Bass was shifted to the cloak room at the same salary, but declined to brush off members of the assembly. Mouser defended Bass, saying he has a better education than most of the assemblymen and he does not wish him to act in the capacity of a servant. Chairman Smith says Bass will have to work to hold his job.

RED CROSS WORKERS

Some months ago several ladies of Glendale faithfully kept their word to meet at the home of Mrs. A. R. Oliver for the benevolent purpose of making supplies for the British Red Cross society. The result of their combined labors was shipped via Vancouver to London, Eng., on August, 1916. Those ladies who so generously gave of their time and money will be glad to learn their efforts have been duly appreciated in the receipt of a letter from the office of the British Red Cross Society of London, Eng., which acknowledged receipt of the articles and at the same time states these things are so badly needed by the sick and wounded soldiers, and will be highly appreciated by them. They will be divided between the military hospitals abroad and in Great Britain.

Great credit is reflected upon these ladies for the unselfish manner which they have displayed in their self-appointed tasks.

COMBINATION POLICIES

W. B. KIRK, LIFE UNDERWRITER, DISCUSSES DIFFERENT FORMS OF INSURANCE

As many advertisements are appearing in the papers and magazines nowadays in which insurance companies are offering single policies of protection against death, accident, disability from sickness and old age in very liberal amounts, leaving the impression that all these benefits can be secured by almost any man at a small price, of course I am frequently asked about their merit. Doubtless many readers of The News will be interested in knowing more about them.

The matter of providing sure income for the family in the event of death, sickness or accident and especially for old age, is occupying more and more of the attention of all right thinking men and they are looking into the different propositions offered with ever-increasing interest.

Let me say first that there is nothing novel in these offers, except that they are in combination. There is an old saying that "you can't beat the insurance game"—in other words, you always pay for what you get. These combination policies offer an income beginning at 65 if the insured lives to that age or to his beneficiaries if he dies prematurely. Consequently, they are the ordinary continuous income policy, the commuted value of which is less than $1000 for each premium rate. The disability features are those which are covered by the ordinary business man's policy which pays $5000 (sometimes $7500) for accidental death or dismemberment and $25 for weekly indemnity, doubling these amounts if the accident occur on a common carrier on an elevator or in a burning building, etc., and $25 a week for sickness. As this policy costs about $60 a year and the income for life policy about $300 a year at the middle ages, it will be seen that the cost for protection will be not less than $30 a month. It is worth the money and can be easily provided by many men, but cannot be paid by a lot of people who read these ads and get the impression that such a fine proposition can be obtained for about a third of the amount.

A great disadvantage in having life and accident policies combined lies in the fact that a man may want to change, raise or reduce one and not the other, as his need or ability to pay may change, and these things can be done much better if the policies are written separately. Besides, most of the large life insurance companies do not write accident or health insurance, and a large number of the best accident companies do not write life insurance.

As I have pointed out in previous articles, nearly all life insurance is sold at cost in mutual companies, whereas accident insurance, like fire insurance is a commercial proposition, and must show a profit. A few life companies sell life insurance for profit on a "non-par" basis, but the total volume of this is now negligible as compared with the participating or mutual business. Nearly all these latter companies sell participating insurance also, and they are the ones who offer these combination policies, but, usually the "life end" of the policy is on a non-participating basis.

I should say before leaving this part of the subject that I have been referring to the best offering advertised in the "combination" policies. There are others which are offered at much lower cost, but the benefits are correspondingly reduced.

The idea of having the proceeds of a life or endowment policy paid in installments of income has been growing very rapidly in the past few years, because it has been found that in many instances a lump sum of insurance money has been very badly handled by the widow, or even by the insured himself, in his old age, so that it is said the life of an insurance estate is only about seven years. If a man can know that his family will receive a fixed amount of income sufficient for its need, for 10, 15 or 20 years "certain" (and a slightly less amount guaranteed for life if desired) or that he himself will receive this amount beginning at the age of 65 and that this will be held in trust and paid by the strongest financial institutions in the country, what better can he strive for and what more comforting thought can he have?

The different options of settlement in the latest forms of policies leave nothing to be desired to make them meet every need that it would seem possible could arise. Particular

BLESSED ASSURANCE

GOD GIVES PROMISE OF SALVATION TO THE SAVED, SAYS EVANGELIST

The topic for last night was changed by the request of many who could not come out in the rain. Instead of the theme "Amusements," Evangelist Habbick brought a powerful message on the Blessed Assurance, 1 Tim. 1:12, "I am not ashamed for I know in whom I have believed and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day."

The old Scotch Presbyterians used to think it a sin to say they knew they were saved, they hoped so, they longed for it, but dared not claim it. I know what I am talking about. I am a Scotch Presbyterian myself. If a man had a deed to a piece of property he is not ashamed nor afraid to stand on and claim it before any on-coming. He has a deed to his salvation from the original owner and he need not be ashamed to claim it. Thank God I know I am a child of God, once His child always His child. I can't be a child of God today and a child of the devil tomorrow. I was born a child of God. I may side-step, but I don't lose my sonship. My father will see to it that I get back into the right path. Paul knew whom he had believed and was not ashamed to say so, neither am I. Say Glory to God. Thank God I am not ashamed to shout it.

One of the outspoken, damning sins of today is adultery. There are two kinds, physical and spiritual, both are honey-coming this land. Physical adultery is breaking homes, sending children adrift and destroying the foundation of a nation. Spiritual adultery in taking up of cults and isms is destroying the visible church and bringing disrepute upon the name of the Son of God.

I know who has saved me, I know who keeps me, I don't keep myself, God keeps me. He has my name written in the Lamb's Book of Life and He is going to keep it there. Amen! Hallelujah! When God looks at me he don't just look at me. He looks at his Son Jesus Christ and me as one. If God looks at you like this you have got something to tell and you are going to tell it.

Paul had a story to tell and he told it to the Sanhedrim, to Felix, to Agrippa and all the crowd. I have something to tell and I am always going to tell it. The devil will try to trip you up. Sometimes you will let him, but God will pick you up every time. Ten years after God had saved me from drink, death and hell the devil had my foot on the door of a saloon in the old Barbary Coast in San Francisco. But thank God the Holy Spirit drew me back and kept me. Kept that which I had entrusted to Him. Paul knew and I know and you may know Jesus Christ fulfilled the law to every jot and tittle and made us free in Christ Jesus.

When you are happy about any earthly thing you don't mind saying so. You don't mind laughing and looking happy. Why can't you do the same for Jesus Christ? When you let the Holy Spirit glorify Jesus Christ in you, sinners are going to be saved. They know a good thing when they see it and they want it too. It is no wonder they don't want the brand of salvation some people have. Unsaved man, woman, boy or girl there is a brand. Paul's brand, you can have it for the taking. Won't you take it? There were some who did take it last night. Glory to His name!

Tonight at 7:30 the message will be "The Unpardonable Sin." No services Saturday. Sunday is to be a great day with meetings throughout the day. Sunday night Mr. Habbick will bring the deferred message on "Amusements" and his own personal experience. All who will are invited to come to the feast of fat things. The table is spread, if you are hungry it is of your own choosing.

Child of God, whatever house or denomination you may live in, we call upon you to pray for the salvation of souls to the Glory of God.

Mrs. Albert Hayden and son Julian of Chicago, who are spending the winter at Long Beach, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Turk of 521 Glendale avenue on Tuesday.

pation in the entire earnings of the company on the deferred installments is given by many of the companies and their interest earnings are 4 1/2 to 5 per cent in absolutely secure investments, where can a man get so much? At some future time I will write further in detail as to these settlement "options."

THE ETHICAL SIGNIFICANCE OF CYMBELINE

The Shakespeare Section of the Tuesday Afternoon club at its recent meetings has been studying the play "Cymbeline" and the ladies of the club have furnished some excellent papers that deserve a wider reading. We give below one written by Mrs. J. E. Lyon of 319 North Maryland avenue and read by her at the open meeting of the section on Monday at the home of Mrs. Frank Hester on Maple avenue on "The Ethical Significance of Cymbeline."

Matthew Arnold has said that by ethics we mean, in common life, conduct; in philosophy, morality; in religion, righteousness. Aristotle, in his theory of Poetics has said that the characters portrayed in epic and tragic poetry have their basis in moral goodness, but the goodness is of a heroic order; the characters lift us above the reality of daily life. This great teacher also said that poetry is an emotional delight. Its end is to give pleasure, and has a direct moral purpose. Homer was still thought less of as the inspired poet who charmed the imagination, than as the great teacher who had laid down all the rules needed for the conduct of life, and in whom was hidden all the lessons of philosophy.

Mr. Frank Sharp, in his book, "Shakespeare's Portrayal of the Moral Life," applies to Shakespeare Matthew Arnold's dictum that conduct constitutes three-fourths of human life: "If conduct be three-fourths of life, or in other words, if all deliberate actions have a moral bearing, Shakespeare's description of the moral world is but a name for his collected works." Shakespeare teaches that if virtue is beautiful and attractive it should follow that vice is hideous and repulsive; that the wages of sin is death; that we pay the penalty for every broken law, whether physical or moral; that I am my brother's keeper; that the law thundered from Mount Sinai and written on tables of stone is supreme.

There is good authority for the view that the ethical teaching of a play depends upon the conduct of its women. A great ethical teacher, John Ruskin, has said in his "Sesame and Lilies," which sums up his most mature views on life and art, that "Shakespeare has no heroes, he has only heroines. The catastrophe of every play is caused by the folly or fault of a man." Othello would have been a hero, Ruskin tells us, but for the one weakness, jealousy, of his mighty love, which led him to crime in the crushing out of the life of his beautiful wife, Desdemona. There is hardly a play that has not a perfect woman in it, "steadfast in grave hope and errorless purpose."

The Modern Drama Compared to Shakespeare's Play

Ibsen and Bernard Shaw stand at the head of the modern drama, the latter a very clever Irishman who has written some fine plays, such as "Candida." The other modern dramatists appear to have followed closely in the footsteps of these two. The tendency is to moralize or to preach, and thus destroy the art of true poetry and drama. But Shakespeare settles every problem in his plays and settles it right.

Among many of the modern so-called "problem" plays are "Michael and His Lost Angel" by Henry Arthur Jones; "Lady Windemere's Fan" by Oscar Wilde, whom we sometimes think of, not as a writer but as an exquisite with a sunflower in his buttonhole; "The Scarecrow" by Percy McKaye, which gives one an uncanny feeling; "The Father" by Strindberg, who seems to have put into his play all the coldness and isolation of the country from which he came.

"The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" by Pinero is the story of a woman who has not always been clothed in white; she marries a man of splendid merit, is brought to a rich home to be the companion of the beautiful daughter of the house, just from a convent. The girl, though she knows nothing of this woman's past, feels that she is unlike the women she has been associating with. The result is a disastrous failure. The wife takes her own life, the daughter's life is wrecked. The story of this play leaves no beauty nor inspiration in the mind of the reader. Whistler, the artist, stood before a picture and said "Interesting, but is it art?" thus suggesting that true art should never moralize.

In "The Sensitive Plant," a gem of wonderful beauty, Shelley writes: "A sensitive plant in the garden grew, And the young winds fed it with silver dew, And it opened its fan-like leaves to the light And closed them beneath the kisses of night."

Then Shelley describes this garden fair, its flowers rare and shrubs from every clime, the song of the nightingale mingled with the murmur of the fountain:

"But the spirit of the garden was a lady fair Who tended the flowers with loving care, I doubt not the flowers of the garden sweet, Rejoiced in the sound of her gentle feet."

Three days the garden missed her and on the fourth the sensitive plant heard the chant of the funeral, and the flowers knew they had lost their loving friend. The garden went to decay and the flowers withered and died. But in conclusion the poet says:

"The garden sweet and the lady fair In truth had never passed away."

What was said of Homer applies equally well to this beautiful poem. Shelley's style here is so simple and direct that it is a wonder so much beauty can be crowded into so small a space.

The Religion of Cymbeline

Imogen, the beautiful daughter of the royal house, whose virtue shines like a star in a dark night, lets this prayer escape from her lips, as she composes herself to rest:

"To your protection I commend me, gods, From fairies and the tempters of the night Guard me beseech yee."

Here was the true spirit of faith and righteousness. Again in Pisanio's denunciation of slander there is a good deal of ethical teaching. Johnathan Edwards never hurled anathemas at his trembling congregation on sin and bottomless pit with any more force than did Pisanio, the good friend of the royal house, denounced to Imogen the slanderer, as he said:

"No, 'tis slander, Whose edge is sharper than the sword, whose tongue Out-venomes all the Worms of Nile, Rides on the posting winds, and doth belye

All corners of the world. Kings, queens and states, Maides, matrons, may the secrets of the grave This viperous slander enters."

A wonderful spirit of forgiveness is manifested in this play. We notice that there is a very different Cymbeline at the close than at the opening of the play. Under the rule of a wicked woman the king is made weak and vacillating; we see him as the tender father when he exclaims "My tears that fall Prove holy water on thee, Imogen."

And again, as he gathers his restored household around him, "Stand by my side, You whom the gods have made preservers of my throne. Stand by my side you whom the gods have made Preservers of my throne."

This same divine quality is also found in Posthumus. It is hard to forgive an enemy painted as black as Yachimo, who has offered to pay with his life as a forfeit for sin. As Yachimo in a spirit of humility grovels in the very dust at his feet, Posthumus says:

"Kneel not to me; The power that I have on you is to spare you, The malice toward you to forgive you. Live And deal with others better."

If we want to hear the music of the play, listen to the song of the lark. This little bird, scorned of the ground, building its nest on the earth, arises and sings hymns at heaven's gate, teaching us a lesson that though we be hewers of stone or wood, our thoughts can wing their way to the throne of the Omnipotent.

THE MANNER OF CHRIST'S COMING

The rainy weather last night led Evangelist Philip L. Knox to give an impromptu talk on "The Manner of Christ's Coming" in place of the announced subject, "Christ's Prediction of Twentieth Century Events." This subject will be given later. The meetings at Evangel hall, 115 South San Fernando road, are attracting much attention, and many are attending every night. Last night Miss Henrietta Hughes and Prof. I. C. Colcord rendered solos and tonight Miss Kathrene Hansen will sing. Tonight at 7:45 Evangelist Celia Andross will speak on "God's Ultimatum to the Nations."

Evangelist Knox used for his text last night the words of Christ in John 14:1-3, "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions: If it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am there ye may be also."

The speaker then called attention to the statement in Acts 1:11, that "this same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven." When Christ ascended a cloud received him, and this cloud grew smaller and smaller to the disciples' view as it left the earth," said the evangelist. "When Christ returns the cloud will appear, and as it draws nearer the earth it will be seen to be composed, not of vapor, but of myriads of angels. Matthew 24:30 tells us Christ will come with clouds, and the next verse tells us of the heavenly beings who compose this cloudy chariot. 2 Thessalonians 4:16, 17 conveys a similar thought, telling us of the descent of Christ from heaven. However, his feet will not touch the earth at that time. It is our privilege today to be looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ."

An Open Letter

I was visiting a friend in Glendale the other day when she exclaimed: "Oh, by the way, let me show you what I got from a firm in Los Angeles who sends wagons around with one pound of their baking powder for 50c. They gave me one of these egg beaters free. When I explained to her that Booth at 1005 W. Broadway, Glendale, a fellow townsman, was selling a better baking powder (Pure) for 15c a pound she saw where she had paid 35c more for her baking powder in order to get a small trifle like that. The state board of education apportioned the elementary schools in September $2,993,500, a rate of $250 a teacher, the balance to be made up out of daily attendance of pupils, which ought to reach $8.10 per pupil. The high schools had a much larger apportionment. If you do not think the elementary schools need boosting come and hear Dr. Margaret Shallenberger McNaught, state commissioner of elementary work, on Monday, January 22, at 3 o'clock at the high school.

The guests were the immediate neighbors of Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Yard. The guest of honor being from the east, Mrs. Baker made the luncheon suggestive of California and its sunshine in every detail, and the menu consisted entirely of California products. Yellow acacia decorated the table, being beautifully arranged with asparagus plumes dotted with white spangled butterflies. The luncheon favors were poppy baskets filled with nuts and each course carried out the yellow color scheme to represent sunshine with a touch of green, which against the white linen and cut glass was indescribably pretty. The guests felt that a flood of California sunshine had somehow been brought in to fill the room. Covers were laid for Mrs. Norton, Mrs. E. D. Yard, Mrs. H. A. Anderson, Mrs. J. B. Bloor, Mrs. Donald McDaniel, Mrs. John Rice, Mrs. W. Sanford, Mrs. Horace Ranger, Mrs. E. S. Andrews and Mrs. Frederick Baker.

value—and a second mortgage given to the former owner of the land or to a bank or private money lender for the balance.

It must be borne in mind that the amount which can be borrowed under the Farm Loan Act is limited to 50 per cent of the appraised value of the land, and this is written on the assumption that the tenant will not pay more for his land than it is actually worth, or in other words its appraised value as contemplated under the Farm Loan Act.

To furnish a concrete example: Suppose John Smith, a renter, wants to buy 100 acres of land, valued at $50 an acre. The total purchase price would be $5000, but John Smith has not the money to buy it.

Under the Farm Loan Act Smith would be entitled to borrow $2500 of the appraised value, if this appraised value should be the same as the purchase price. This would leave $2500 to be handled by a second mortgage. The amount borrowed under the Farm Loan Act could be paid to the original owner of the land and a second mortgage executed for the difference.

The original owner would thus get a satisfactory payment down, and if he had confidence in the purchaser, he would probably be willing to accept a second mortgage for the balance, divided into ten annual payments.

Here is the way it would figure out:

The first mortgage of $2500 given under the Farm Loan Act would draw, let us say, 5 1/2 per cent interest and would be paid off on the installment plan through a period of forty years by making annual payments of $155.95.

Now let us say that the second mortgage would draw 6 per cent and could be arranged so as to be retired in ten years. The interest on this $2500 mortgage at 6 per cent would be $150 the first year and one-tenth of the $2500 would be $250.

Adding the interest and the one-tenth annual payment would mean a payment of $400 on the second mortgage the first year. The second year payment would be $385 and the following payments through the ten years to retire the second mortgage, both principal and interest, would be $370, $355, $340, $325, $310, $295, $280 and $265.

On top of all these annual payments would be the $155.95 interest and amortization payments on the first mortgage to the Federal Land Bank so that the total payments, interest and principal, on the two mortgages, would begin at $555.95 and dwindle down to $420.95 the tenth year and after that only $155.95 each year.

If the terms of the second mortgage could be arranged for longer than ten years the required annual payments would be correspondingly reduced.

These payments are no greater than the average tenant pays for rent. The first year payment on both of these mortgages would amount to approximately $5.50 an acre. These would gradually reduce until the tenth year he would be paying only $1.55 per acre per year. Instead of being paid as rental this money is applied on the purchase price of the land.

The interest rates quoted in this instance are suggestions only and are not to be taken as an official statement of what rates will prevail under the Farm Loan Act.

SUNLAND

The San Fernando Sunday School convention met at Owensmouth Sunday, Jan. 14th. A large delegation from the Sunland Baptist Sunday school and the Tujunga M. E. Sunday school attended. The Monte Vista Valley orchestra furnished the music. Mr. S. D. Percy is president of this convention and Rev. Edmonds was the principal speaker. His talk was very instructive. A fine dinner was served in the cafe.

There was no meeting of the Chamber of Commerce this week.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Early came down from the Tujunga canyon Tuesday. They reported the river a beautiful sight with icicles along the bridges. Mr. Early says the snow and ice reminded him of the east.

Remember the C. E. convention next Sunday and prepare to attend. There will be the regular preaching services in the morning by Rev. Wesler and the young people will have the rest of the day. Hugh Waddell will be here to have charge of the evening meeting. Everybody invited.

Mr. L. T. Rowley purchased of his brother, Q. J. Rowley, his interest in block 38 of the Monte Vista townsite. Mr. L. T. Rowley believes there is a great future for Sunland.

Mr. Wm. R. Hay and Lucinda E. Winsor were married in Los Angeles last Saturday, Jan. 13.

One of the pleasant social gatherings of the past week was the meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the First Baptist church which was entertained by Mrs. L. T. Rowley and Mrs. Wm. Blumfield at the home of Mrs. Rowley. The rooms were beautifully decorated with ragged robin roses. Mrs. Zachaw and Mrs.

Mr. Wetherbee has sold the colt which he purchased recently to a Los Angeles party.

STUDEBAKER AGENCY, 421 BRAND BLVD., GLENDALE

Ingersol sang two duets, selections from Mendelssohn. Mrs. Zachaw rendered a vocal selection in German from F. Abt. Mrs. Charley Lewis gave a very interesting reading. Dainty refreshments were served, after which the members of the society recited original poems about how they had earned their dollar. Much merriment was caused by the different methods of earning a dollar. There was ten dollars added to the Aid fund. Mrs. Geo. Bernhard was elected secretary to take the place of Mrs. Wetmore, who has moved from Sunland. Three new members were added. The next social afternoon will be entertained by Mrs. Alfred Adams, Jr., and Mrs. Allen Richardson the first Thursday in February.

Mrs. Anna E. Thomas came up from Los Angeles Wednesday for a short stay, returning in the evening. Mrs. Thomas has decided to rent her home in Sunland and stay in Los Angeles with her niece, Mrs. D.

Mr. Geo. E. Huse left Saturday night for Fresno, where he was joined by his brothers, W. O. and B. B. Huse, who accompanied him to Madera and Raymond, where they have land interests.

Mr. Geo. B. DeSelle is in Sunland looking after his five-acre ranch.

Mrs. Branstetter has been busy the past week painting and tinting her house on Summit avenue, getting it ready to rent.

Rev. Wester and wife came up from Pasadena Sunday and Rev. Wester preached both morning and evening. He began a series of sermons on the subject of "Burden Bearers" which everybody will be benefitted by hearing. Everybody welcome at these services. Morning at 11 o'clock. Evening at 7:30.

Mr. B. F. Mears has been transacting business in Los Angeles the past week.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Glendale's 110-pound basketball team is scheduled to meet Pasadena's light weight squad on the home grounds this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The question every one is asking is: Will the recent revival of school spirit continue? Are Glendale's teams going to receive the support of the school?

The students will also be given a chance to boost for their alma mater on Saturday, when Glendale's heavy-weight team meets South Pasadena. This game is being boosted with much determination. South Pasadena is an old enemy of ours, and we expect to send them home in defeat and humility.

Miller Fischel and Carleton West, prominent members of the first team, have been given places on the L. A. A. C. lightweight basketball squad. These boys should receive valuable training at this institution.

Glendale's tennis team will meet Compton Saturday. Captain Crandall predicts victory.

Vodevil Success

Were you there? Why, surely, everyone was there.

That was indeed the impression one got at the Alumni Vodevil. Despite the steady downpour, two good houses witnessed last evening one of the most successful shows ever staged in the city.

The bill was a pleasant mingling of amateur and professional numbers. So well were the amateur attractions worked out, however, that they could scarcely be distinguished from the professional.

A high standard has been set for the G. U. H. S. Alumni association in its yearly performances. "Polly of the Circus" and "The Voice of Conscience" were of a grade that seemed hard to equal. But last evening's performance proved worthy of its antecedents. In addition it presented all the charms of variety. Not a feature of the show that does not deserve praise, from the artistic opening selection of Julius Kranz to the nimble gyrations of Keller's dancing act.

After the returns had been counted Jim Henry Ilse, president of the association, stated that nearly a hundred dollars had been added to the Students' Loan Fund by the affair.

HOW THE LANDLESS MAY MAKE USE OF FARM LOAN ACT TO GET FARMS OF THEIR OWN

(Written for the United Press.)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The question has been frequently asked "How can a renter who has not saved 50 per cent of the purchase price of land make use of the Federal Farm Loan Act to get land of his own?"

The answer is, by means of a first mortgage given under the Farm Loan Act for 50 per cent of the purchase price—provided this does not exceed 50 per cent of the appraised
